

ALBERA OATS ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD

Samples Weighing 44 Pounds to the Bushel Showed at Seed Fair This Morning

The seed grain fair, which opened in Robertson's hall this morning, has proven again what has been known to Albertans for a long time, that the Edmonton district can beat the rest of the universe in the production of oats. Among the samples sent by the Dominion Government to be used as standards in judging the oats for the award of prizes, was one marked "extra special" and typical of the best that Manitoba can produce. They were undoubtedly nice-looking oats, and considering that they came from Manitoba, weighed pretty well. On the official scales, they tilted the lever at 38 3/4 pounds, which is the Manitoba idea of the finest oats that can be produced.

When the fair opened this morning, however, and the Manitoba sample came to be compared with the Alberta product, it looked like a very poor finisher in the race for supremacy. Among the 55 samples of oats, which were placed on exhibition it is a safe bet that there was not one that weighed as light as the Manitoba sample, and most of them weighed from four to five pounds more. One sample of what one would consider by observation to be about on a par with all the other samples entered as milling oats was put on the scales and showed 44 pounds to the bushel, over five pounds to the bushel heavier than the pride of Manitoba. When it is considered that these samples are not taken from any large range of picked specimens, but are the regular every-day thing in Alberta, an idea can be had of the superior quality of the Alberta oats.

The seed fair in proving all the success that was expected of it, although there are not quite so many entries as might have been expected. At noon today there were 117 entries altogether. For the big Grand Special prize, the silver cup offered by the Seaton-Smith people for the best sample of 1,000 bushels, there were nine entries and the judges have their work cut out for them to tell which one is entitled to the prize. At any rate, to look at, they seem to be so uniformly even that it would be hard to tell how the judges could find a difference.

The largest number of entries is, as might be expected, of milling oats. In this class there are no less than twenty-seven samples on exhibit, and all of them would take first prize in almost any other city in America except Edmonton.

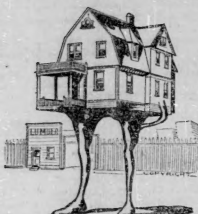

In the short oats class there are nineteen entries, and in the Red Fife spring wheat class there are nineteen samples entered. There are five entries of Turkey Red fall wheat and five entries of milling barley. Nearly all the other classes are represented by only one or two entries.

Taking them by school districts, it looks as though Clover Bar should carry off the grand aggregate prize as they have away the most samples in the competition. From Clover Bar school district there are twenty-five entries. Salsbury and Oliver have five each, East Edmonton, Belmont and Wimberton have four each and Colchester has two, while Poplar Lake has only one entry.

The exhibits were all in place at a comparatively early hour this morning and there were a large number of spectators to view the samples before noon. The judges, Messrs. A. Mitchell, of McLeod, and W. McKilligan, of Calgary who are appointed by the seed branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa to do the judging for the Alberta seed fair, spent the morning going over the wheat samples. They have decided which are the prize winners in this class, but so far have not put up the red tickets as they do not want to award any of the diplomas until the judging is complete.

This afternoon W. C. Killigan, will deliver a lecture at the hall on the subject of seed grain selection, and this evening Alex Mitchell will lecture on soil cultivation.

AWAY WITH THE SOUNDING BRASS

The Pot Metal Hypocrisy in the City
Bell Tower Must Go

At last! It has come! The soul of music has rebelled. No more the classic spirit of the god of vibrant harmony will steal with battered ears to the cyclone cellars of grim despair while the discordant clangor of the city bell booms forth on the evening breeze rattles the china for half a block—and sometimes more when the wind is right. The city commissioners have spoken. The aesthetic nature of J. H. Hargraves has been jarred in agony until there was nothing for it but a lightning conductor dipped in vitriol with which to pen words to this effect:

Edmonton, 12-2-06.

To the makers of the city bell (if the crime can be brought home to you.)

Gentlemen (?)—You, I believe, are the villains who made the city bell. I vow no greater devilry has ever been committed on a simple pastoral people. When you got to us for the order for the bell you sprang testimonials to show that its silver-tongued oratory would soothe our populace into rhapsodies of dreamy harmony and song. Lastestays I wot that was the intent of the recommendations for your bells from ex-mayors of Oshkosh and Kalamazoo, and from all that idyllic vale of blissful melody, the red trunk belt adjacent to Kanasakuh and Kokam.

But what do we find? Of what avail all these high-sounding testimonials from corn-fed dignitaries whom we know not of when the instrument of your villany, the bell we have so proudly exalted on a pedestal of home-grown cement, is a dumb-bell.

Take it back, I say. Take back your jarring blasphemy in bronze and give us peace and our money forthwith, that the sibilant soul of harmony may hover over our city once again. Relieve us of this weird ton-weight curse of cast-iron discordance, and let our nerves relapse to a soothing-syrup stage of sensitized susceptibility, where we can take in the beautiful, the good and the harmonious in the world of music without having the tympan of our ear-drums battered into insensibility by the boiler factory notes of the pot metal contrivance you allege to be a bell. Take back your bell or one of these beautiful Tuesday evenings the city aldermen will rise in their wrath and upset all traditions since Cromwell's time by ordering, in their agony, that "Curfew shall not ring to-night." Suspend this cruelty, oh ye bell makers. Give us a bell that booms a resilient bass, or give us our bullion back. We want no more flannel-toned agony from your bogus chime.

These are the burning thoughts that are speeding from the city commissioners' office to the foundry of the men who made the bell. Citizens will take courage from its tone, and will hope that the makers may be induced to accept the consent to a part payment for taking the bell out of the country.

BROUGHT IN CATCH OF FUR

Indians Dependent on Reindeer Migration May Suffer Want

E. C. Roberts, a partner of Fletcher F. Bredin in the fur trading business in the north, and F. E. Maroney, arrived down from Lesser Slave Lake on Saturday night with one of the most valuable consignments of fur that has so far been brought down this winter. Between the two they had 28 packs altogether, valued approximately at $30,000. Mr. Bredin stated last night that the fur would probably be sold in the city, but so far no arrangements have been made for their disposition.

F. C. Roberts, who has been up north all season and has had an excellent opportunity to observe says that this year will go on record as a phenomenal one in the fur trade. There is more fur in the north, around the Lesser Slave Lake, where he is operating than he has ever seen before in all his experience and he states that the Mackenzie assures them that the same is true right to the Arctic Ocean. So far, Mr. Roberts says, the rabbits have lived through the winter very well and there is a probability that the fur plenitude will last into another year. By far the greater part of the value of the furs that they brought down is in lynx skins and as long as the rabbits last in their present number there will be plenty of lynx. The coyotes and timber wolves are getting very numerous however, and are creating terrible havoc among the game and fur-bearing animals. The coyotes kill and drive out the foxes, and already they have made certain districts unprofitable that were last year and early this year good trapping grounds for foxes. Over toward the Peace River, in the moose country, the timber wolves are creating terrible havoc among the moose, and there will be few of the calves live through the winter. Next winter, Mr. Roberts thinks there will be destitution among these Indians.

For the present, however, the Indians all over the north, with the exception of the Reindeer Indians who live away to the east of the Athabasca and Lesser Slave, are enjoying a season of unusual plenty, and are indulging in more flour at $7 a sack and more luxuries than ever before.

These Indians who are the lonely exception to the general prosperity in the north, live in the Reindeer country, away to the east of the regular line of travel from Edmonton, northward. The country inhabited by these Indians is the regular winter stamping grounds of the reindeer, and it is on them that the Indians depend for their winter food. These little animals, which legend has always endowed with wonderful travelling capacities, amply justify the traditions in the Canadian north. In the summer time they graze in the extreme far north, around the mouth of the Coppermine river and each fall they start—usually about the middle of September—for the south, migrating a total distance of about eight or nine hundred miles in a straight line, or as they would have to travel, more like 1,500 miles. Every once in a while the snow in the north country comes earlier or deeper than usual and then the reindeer are unable to get to their usual winter feeding grounds, and when these seasons occur there is always destitution among the Indians who are waiting away down south for their arrival. That is what has happened in that country this winter, and before spring, unless the reindeer make their way through, there may be considerable starvation among the Indians in that country.

BOUNDARY ROBBER CAPTURED

Minneapolis, Feb. 12.—Through an arrest made heretofore the Federal authorities and representatives of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police have dealt a severe blow to an organized gang of international thieves, smugglers and sharks that has been operating extensively for years along the boundary. With the help of a Minneapolis detective agency, Logan, an officer of the Dominion service, was able to run down and arrest Bearstein, alias Max Baumburg, one of the gang. The man is also wanted for a similar offence in New York.

WILL VISIT CALGARY.

The following letter has been received by the Calgary board of trade from Vice President Hill of the Great Northwest:

Dear Sir—I wish to acknowledge and thank you for your courteous invitation of the 18th. When the season opens in the spring and the roads are dry and in condition for traveling, I shall arrange to make a trip in your territory, and shall undoubtedly let you know in advance when it will be.

Yours very truly
LOUIS W. HILL,

Vice-President.

LOOKING FOR NEW OIL FIELDS

Representative of Detroit Syndicate Now in the North

F. E. Maroney and E. C. Roberts, who came down from the north on Saturday night, report having met on the way north Harry D. Clifford, of Detroit, who left Edmonton some three weeks ago for the Grand Prairie country, to locate oil land.

Mr. Clifford is representing a syndicate of Detroit men who have been in the oil business for many years in the Essex oil fields, in Ontario, and who are now reaching out in search of new fields in the north. Mr. Clifford spent all last summer in that country, and last fall came out to Edmonton, where he secured some eighteen or twenty miners' licenses and slipped away for the north again without telling his business to anyone.

The country in which Mr. Clifford intends to take out oil locations is some three hundred and fifty miles to the northwest of Edmonton, but by the route that he will travel, it will be a trip of over seven hundred miles, all of which will be covered with a team and sleigh. His route will be from Edmonton to the Athabasca Landing, thence up the Athabasca to Lesser Slave Lake, thence across to the Peace at Peace River Landing, and thence up the Peace to Dunvegan, and from there south. The country in which the petroleum is reported to exist is in the triangle formed by the Wapiti, the Smoky and the Peace, and many stories are told by travellers and voyageurs who know that country, of indications of enormous oil wealth to be seen there. Mr. Clifford, of Detroit, however, is the first man who has undertaken to systematically explore the country far-off and to locate with the intention of developing the resource. His enterprise will be watched with great interest by all who are familiar with the north, and his friends in this country will wish him every success.

CARNIVAL AT RED DEER

Red Deer, Feb. 10.—The carnival given by the band last night was an unqualified success, though there appeared to be some difficulty in running off the race, owing in a great measure to the crowd being over anxious to show their ability on the winged steed. The race around which chief interest centered was the men's race; 15 laps which was won easily by Dan Smith, who though only 15 years of age shows an amazing turn of speed and distanced the second competitor by half a lap and lapped the third. A Cornett took second in this race and Lew Handford, third. In the boys' race Fred Bernholt took first and Gordon Fulmer second. There were no entries for the girls or ladies race. The fancy skating competition was won by A. B. Pardy. Two novelty races followed. The cigarette race being won by R. Gee and Mrs. Rondo, and the sleigh bunting race being won by D. Garland and F. Reinhold.

The costumes were many and varied ranging from a jack-in-the-box to a tiny youngster dressed as Topsy. After all the judging was over a torch light procession was formed and headed by the band, who were dressed as the spooks of monsters of prehistoric ages, paraded around the rink several times; some of the costumes looking very uncanny when passing the red and blue fire at opposite ends of the rink. The rink was very prettily lit with Chinese lanterns which gave it a very pretty effect when the electric lights were flashed off.

The following were the prize-winners: Best ladies costume—First Mrs. Harkness Moorish Dancing Girl; Second Miss Jessie Tait, Highland Lassie; Third Mrs. Rondo, Liberty. Best gents costume—First P. Coltingham, Chinese giant; Second, H. Bradford, Uncle Sam; Third, H. Franter, Oriental costume. Best comic costume—Rube Gee, clown.

Best girls costume—First Olive Smith, Queen of May; Second, Neil, Poptill, Red Riding Hood. Best boys costume—First, L. Gault, Robin Hood; Second, Bert Ushewool, Topsy; Third, A. Slade, Brigand.

Best dressed couple—First, Miss Howarth and ————, Second Miss Sparks and Miss McCutcheon. The judges were Messrs. E. V. Cooke, A. Munroe, R. C. Brumpton, W. Peterson and R. Gault.

Special mention should be made of Miss Roberta McCutcheon as "a little maid from school" and Miss Mamm Crawford as a gipsy.

British Troops Despatched to the Scene of the South African Disturbances—Chief Claims Rebels are Mal-contents

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, Feb. 12.—An expedition of four hundred Carabines with artillery left on Saturday for the scene of the trouble in the Richmond district, caused by the natives refusing to pay poll tax. Another detachment of two hundred and twenty-five men started Sunday. The ringleaders of the turbulent factions have disappeared in the bush. The chief of the tribe, who is now here, describes the malcontents as being a troublesome Christianized section of the tribe. They are said to be converts to the Ethiopian church whose banner is inscribed with the words, "Africa for the Africans."

PHILADELPHIA TRAGEDY

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—In jealous rage Frank Populace, aged 29, today shot and killed Mrs. Anna Jablonsky, aged 35 years, with whom he boarded. Running to the street he was pursued by a crowd, and after a chase, he turned the weapon upon himself. He is dying.

FURNACE BLEW UP.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—During a dance of the 13th Scottish Light Dragoons in King's Hall, Saturday, an explosion took place in the furnace in the cellar, which blew all the windows out of the front of the building, and tore the plaster off the walls and caused the upheaval of the floor upon which the military men and their ladies, to the number of 200, were dancing. No panic ensued. One person was injured.

TRADE IN THE ORIENT. Calgary, Feb. 12.—I. K. Kerr, president of the Calgary Milling Co., Calgary Waterpower Co., and Eau Claire Lumber Co., returned Saturday from a four month's visit to Japan and China. He went there to investigate conditions regarding the shipment of flour from Calgary and western Canada to Japan. Mr. Kerr reports that the flour market in Japan is glutted, partly because of the nation having been loaded up at the time of the war and because the U. In China, Canada is feeling the effects of the embargo because the Chinese cannot or will not recognize Canadians, classing all North Americans as Americans.

USE THE BULLETIN WANT ADS.King Christian, of Denmark

(Mail and Empire.)

King Christian of Denmark, who is dead at the age of 88, was famous as a father rather than as a monarch. At heart he was a country squire, and loved simplicity and wholesomeness and good cheer more than fame and glory and authority. His children were brought up to admire these things, too, and it was once said that any of his daughters would make a good queen or a good farmer's wife. Their old-fashioned training and their plain quiet ways of living had as much to do with the brilliant matches they all made as their personal charms had. In Queen Alexandra the British people have had a fine example of Denmark's Royal daughters, for her Majesty has inherited richly from her father. Her great interest in domestic economy and the skill with which she directs many of the operations on the Sandringham estate are no more than might be expected from King Christian's favorite daughter.

The Grandfather of Europe is a title that has been bestowed on the late King of Denmark, and it is a fact that his blood is intermingled with that of most of the Royal houses of the Continent. The Queen of England is his daughter, and so is the mother of the Czar of Russia. The new King of Norway is a grandson, and the King of Greece is a son. The betrothed of the King of Spain is also a granddaughter. As King Christian was of German descent, it might be easy to prove that he and the Kaiser and the Emperor of Austria are kinsmen. Another daughter was married to Prince Ernest Augustus, Duke of Cumberland, and his youngest son married Princess Marie d'Orleans. From this account of the matrimonial fortunes of his family, it will be plain that there are few European Royal houses that do not mourn the loss of a distinguished kinsman today.

As intimated above King Christian was not of pure Danish stock. In fact, he was elected to the throne just as his son was elected to the throne of the Hellenes, and his grandson to the throne of Norway. Christian was born the fourth son of Duke William of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. As a youth he entered the service of the Danish army, and at the death of Frederick VII. was Inspector-General and Commander-in-chief of the Danish Cavalry. The direct descent ended with Frederick VII., but Christian had been named as his successor by the Treaty of London, in 1852, and by the Danes themselves a year later. His blood claim on the throne was a slim one indeed, and was based on the fact that his wife, Louise, daughter of the Landgrave Wilhelm of Hesse-Cassel, was the cousin and heiress of Frederick VII. In 1846 however when the whole house of Schleswig-Holstein had made a protest against the overlordship of the Danish King, Christian alone had remained faithful to Denmark's claims, and no one else was considered when a new king was to be chosen.

He had been on the throne only a few months when the Schleswig-Holstein question brought on a war. A kind of sovereignty over the principality had been exercised by Denmark, and the rights of the Schleswig princes bought out by Frederick VII., but some kind of claim was made out by Prince Augustus, and bolstered up by Germany and Austria. The King expected to get support from England and France. Palmerston, it was said, encouraged him in this delusion, and he went to war with Prussia and Austria. Without allies he had no chance in the world, and so, after some stiff fighting, King Christian made peace and surrendered to his conquerors Schleswig, Holstein, and Lauenburg. Later on, when the conquerors fought over a division of the spoils, Denmark was urged by Austria to join her, in the understanding that the provinces would be joined in the event of success, but the King wisely kept his country out of the trouble, and from that time forward has not been drawn into any war.

Though a generation has passed since the Danes have fired a gun in battle, they have made elaborate preparation for the defence of their country. On the fortifications of Copenhagen they have annually spent large sums, almost since the appearance in the harbor of Nelson. This expenditure has kept the country poor and the King has shared the poverty, but gladly, as his heart was in the work of defence. Despite this self-denying patriotism, me, ladies and gentlemen," was Christian has never been as popular at home as abroad, his intense conservatism brought him frequently in contact with the Socialist spirit that has spread over Denmark. From 1873 to 1895 the Riksdag refused to vote the Ministers' budgets, in order to mark its disapproval of King Christian. Unless his successor pursues different tactics, there is trouble ahead for him. Apart from his politics, King Christian was well loved at home. He was not a remarkable man. He did not speak or write or do anything else at all brilliantly. He was a man of retiring disposition, whose misfortune it was to have become a king. It is not as a king that he will be remembered, but as a quiet old gentleman, of whom it has been said, "He is kindness incarnate."

HUMOROUS INCIDENTS IN THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

The Old Country papers contain many humorous incidents, which served to modify the political heat with which the great battle was fought. Here with are a few of them:

While Mr. Walter Long was referring, in a speech at Bristol, to German bread a member of the audience produced a piece and tossed it to the platform, where the ex-Chief Secretary for Ireland elected a neat catch.

"If I had a gun I would shoot you; you are a traitor to Ireland; and a disgrace to the King's uniform," howled an enraged Irishman at a meeting at Woolwich, addressed by Major Adams, the Unionist candidate, who is an Irishman.

At one of Mr. Lloyd-George's meetings in Carnarvon Boroughs, according to the Liverpool Post, a heckler, with the view of disparaging the origin of the President of the Board of Trade, asked him if he remembered that his grandfather drove a donkey and cart. "You will have to forgive me, ladies and gentlemen," was the witty reply; "the cart has quite escaped my memory. I see the donkey is still alive."

Somersetshire had a peer for its returning officer, as the High Sheriff, Sir W. H. Willis, recently became Lord Westminster.

A population greater than that of many Irish towns dwells within the walls of the South Dublin Workhouse. At a meeting of the guardians a member, calling attention to the fact, suggested that the number of the inmates was now large enough to entitle them to send a representative to the House of Commons.

It has been claimed that Sir Charles Dillke's election address was the shortest issued within recent years. This, however, is not the case. It will be remembered that Sir Elliott Lees, while in South Africa in 1900, went to the electors on these words: "My address, Pretoria."

At a tariff reform meeting in East Anglia the candidate was asked by a burly smith's striker: "I swing a sledge-hammer for six days a week for 17s. Do you call that a fair wage?" "No," answered the candidate. "Will your policy give me a better wage?" "Yes," was the reply. "Then you'll have to get rid of that little devil in the chair, 'cos he's the man as pays me!" Mr. Herbert Whiteley, Liberal candidate for Ashton-under-Lyne, was addressing a meeting of miners at a pit's mouth, when one of them exclaimed, "It's all very fine for you to speak at the pit's mouth, but you dare not go below!" Mr. Whiteley at once accepted the challenge, and in a few minutes was in the workings.

Lord Edmund Talbot, Unionist candidate for Chichester, who was confined to bed by illness, spoke his political convictions into a gramophone. Lady Edmund then made a motor-car tour of the constituency, and carried the precious record to the various meetings.

One Lancashire candidate was paid a rather mixed compliment. He was paying a second visit to the house of a doubtful voter. He scarcely expected to win him over, and consequently he was very pleased, though somewhat surprised, on hearing from the elector that he would support him. "Glad to hear it," said the candidate. "I thought you were against me." "Shure, I was at first," said the free and independent voter. "When the other day ye called here and stood by that pig-stye and talked for half an hour, ye didn't budge me an inch; but after ye had gone away, sir, I got to thinking how ye'd reached your hand over the rail and scratched the pig's back till he lay down wid pleasure of it. I made up my mind then that whin a man was so sociable as that wid a poor fellower, whur I

THE COLLAPSE

The unopposed return of the Liberal candidates in West Assiniboia and Prince Albert marks the collapse of Haultainism in Saskatchewan and provides the final proof that the campaign begun and waged by the ex-Premier had its origin and motive of the Honorable Gentleman's desire for self-aggrandizement and not in any broad spirit of public concern such as has been so freely attributed to him by the enemies of the Federal Government. On the evidence of the press which supported him Mr. Haultain made no endeavor to have candidates for these constituencies selected at the convention held in Moose Jaw a few days since. And when a candidate finally appeared in West Assiniboia on the ground of a definite proposal to continue in Federal politics the campaign Mr. Haultain had lately carried on in Saskatchewan the assistance of the influence and organization of Mr. Haultain was not extended to that candidate in any conspicuous measure. When the campaign ceased to have for its object the personal distinction of Mr. Haultain, Mr. Haultain's enthusiasm in the issues of the campaign departed.

The struggle which has terminated with such disastrous consequences to Mr. Haultain and his allies, did not grow out of the school question, nor any other question raised by or originating in the Autonomy Bill or any other enactment or proposal of the Federal Government. The beginning of that struggle was first revealed in a Territorial Conservative convention also held at Moose Jaw some four years ago at which a resolution was passed declaring for the nomination and election of "Conservative candidates as such" at the next ensuing general Territorial elections. The subsequent protestations of Mr. Haultain that he opposed such resolution have not affected nor obliterated the fact that he accepted and continued to maintain the highest office in the gift of the convention, but leaves the Gentleman open to the charge that such opposition was born of considerations of party expediency, rather than of personal inclination. The manifest aspirations of Mr. Haultain toward continued political ascendancy in the North West thus ante-date the measures from which he drew the issues for his later assaults on the Federal Government and on the Provincial Government of Saskatchewan.

The Honorable Gentleman made little delay in entering on the active campaign for realizing those aspirations. In the ensuing Federal election campaign, when the hopes of the Opposition ran high, Mr. Haultain threw himself into the contest in those constituencies where it was considered most desirable to defeat the Government candidates and where the weapon in his hand was likely to prove the most effective. The issue of that campaign was the Grand Trunk Pacific, and while the Opposition calculated confidently on turning public opinion in the Eastern Provinces against the "mad-cap scheme" for a "railway in the remote north," it was conceded that the West was likely to take the opportunity for a body-blow at the C. P. R. monopoly. It was necessary therefore that some counter-acting force be thrown into the western contest to distract attention from the railway question, and it is possible to engender dissatisfaction and hostility toward the Federal Government. For this purpose Mr. Haultain appeared to be "the man with the goods" and he set himself to the task with an energy quite unusual. During the campaign he toured the Territories at large representing in pathetic manner the "apathy" of the Federal Government toward his demands for Provincial Autonomy. The Grand Trunk Pacific and all other matters were relegated to secondary places while he sought to stir up the public mind on this supposedly paramount question. That the electors declined to be drawn from the question and the opportunity of the hour was the fault neither of the inclination nor the energy of the gentleman who threw all the prestige and influence of the Territorial Premier into the attempt to stampede them on a blind trail.

When the autonomy Bills were introduced into the House of Commons the opportunity offered for another assault on the Federal Government on western matters and again Mr. Haultain took the field against the Federal Government. In the by-elections in London and North Oxford he appeared in the leading role and represented himself as the champion of the down-trodden west against Federal encroachment. This falling, he returned to the scene of his former efforts. A convention of Saskatchewan Conservatives was held at which that party decided to temporarily cease operations as a party and under the leadership of the Honorary President of the Territorial Conservative Association to wage war upon the Scott Government under the guise of a nameless party. By this move it was hoped to capture the support of those whose political allegiance is always a variable quantity and any Liberals who might be alienated by sophistry or disaffection. The consequences were in keeping with the deceptions of deception and left the latter condition of the allies so much worse than the first that nothing bearing the ear-marks of a serious attempt to dispute the by-elections in West Assiniboia and Prince Albert was possible. For the low conditions of his fortunes Mr. Haultain has himself to thank. However laudable may have been the ambitions which he cherished toward maintaining the proud position of political leader in the North-West, the methods by which he has sought to conceal those aspirations while seizing every offered chance of realizing them are not deserving of commendation. In striving to play both ends against the middle for his own advancement he over-reached and succeeded only in arousing his opponents, and in making of himself another illustration of the maxim that "You cannot fool all the people all the time."

CURRENT COMMENT

This appears to be an "off year" in Santo Domingo. There is not even rumor of a revolution.

Regardless of the carplings of envious contemporaries the Bulletin will continue to print the news and print it when it is news.

The South African natives appear to take to the poll tax about as kindly as young Canadians are even freer in the expression of their sentiments.

Dr. Donaldson, who was reported murdered in South Africa has turned up at Liverpool. He probably considers the report of his demise somewhat exaggerated.

With the Venezuelans acting for a revolution and the French cruisers threatening to leave shells into La Guayra, it appears to be up to President Casiro to hurt somebody.

The announcement that the Canadian Press Association will visit Edmonton during the coming summer is a matter of importance. Edmonton has done herself proud when British and American journalists were her guests. Her treatment of the foremost newspaper men of our own country should be no less worthy. Westerners have frequent cause of complaint that the eastern press lacks information or sympathy with the West and its problems. An opportunity will now be offered to supply that information and enlist that sympathy and the opportunity should not be lost.

PONOKA GOLDEN WEDDING
Ponoka, Feb. 10.—The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dick was celebrated in Ponoka on Thursday, February 8, the ceremony being performed by Rev. K. C. McLeod in the presence of their children, grandchildren and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick's parents settled in the county of Lanark, province of Ontario, during the first quarter of the last century, coming direct from Scotland, and both had large families to perpetuate the name. They moved with their children, to Minnesota, U. S. A., in 1870, where they remained for about thirty years, but returned to Canada some six years ago when they settled in their present home in Ponoka, Alta. The worthy couple are still hale and hearty and bid fair to spend many happy and old days to spend many happy days in each others' company, and in the midst of their many appreciative friends.

On the evening of the above date a large company assembled at their residence, under the presidency of ex-Mayor McGillivray, to extend congratulations. The time was spent with speeches, songs and a capital lunch partaken of. Before separating the gathering formed a ring, placing Mr. and Mrs. Dick in the centre, and they all sang "Auld Lang Syne". Many telegrams and addresses were received during the day, as well as some very valuable presents. That the councillor and his worthy help meet may yet have a long and happy life is the wish of all in the community in which they live.

Good skating is being had on the rink and large numbers are taking advantage. Friday evening the band was in attendance to listen matters. The hockey team is going in for good sound training and it is confidently expected they will make an everlasting impression on the next team they meet in contest.

Dr. Campbell is at present in Edmonton. Ponoka, is returning to herself again after the holiday season, many of the trippers having returned Thursday and Friday, some from the States, others from Ontario and one from the Emerald Isle.

Jas. Riarlen sold his ranch in the Chesterwood district some time ago, with a view of settling in Armstrong, B.C., but after paying a visit to the mountains, decided to remain here, and this week purchased Wm. Reid's place, two and a half miles northwest of town. Tenders are called for the erection of a creamery at Ferryford, which has to be erected in time for business this spring. With three such institutions in the neighborhood the farmers are looking toward a successful run, and many are going in for a large stock of cows.

In a fast game of hockey on Saturday afternoon the high school seven was defeated by the college team for the first time in the series. The playing was fast all the time, only one goal being scored in the first half, by the high school. In the second part of the game the college scored two, making the score 2-1. Dobson of the senior Thistles, was on the forward line of the college team. The high school team are a great bunch of players, their fastest man being McKenny, who is a whirlwind on the tubes. He plays a clean game, and is a great stick-hander.

The lineup is thus:
HIGH SCHOOL goal Grady
 Sutherland point Kennedy
 Beale C. point York
 Powell center Little Joe
 McKenny rover Jarrett
 Walker centre Dobson
 Webster L. wing de Farre
 Knott R. wing

The senior Thistles left this morning on their trip east. The boys were in high spirits. J. A. McKinnon has charge of the team for the trip. The line-up for the games will be as follows: Goal, Humeston, point W. Banford; cover point, Powers; centre, Sibbald; rover, Derfon; right, Johnston; left, Right; Spares, Elliott, Campbell and Chester Banford. Others in the party are B. Bishopric, E. Laird, P. Dalwin, B. Russell, O. B. Bush, R. A. Robertson left on Saturday to make arrangements at Winnipeg and intermediate points. Tonight the boys play the seniors of Calgary.

The Bulletin gang of puckchasers went down to defeat before the stick-handlers of the Journal on Saturday night to the tune of 4-1. There is no explanation. The best team won, no doubt. Young Paradis of the rival daily, is qualified to play intermediate hockey any day. He is of the same class as Arnold Johnson of the Seniors. But the Bulletin gang can boast of one or two players, who with a little practice, could stay on the ice for all time with any one of the rival bunch.

GOVERNMENT OR CITY PACKING HOUSES

To the Editor, Edmonton Bulletin:
 It appears now that the Canadian Packers have not been able lately to procure sufficient hogs but only from 20 to 50 per cent of the capacity of the factories, and that the big raising is in danger to become seriously demoralized.

From the producers standpoint, hog raising is at present a business where the profits are not uncertain. We a farmer goes into hog raising, he does not know what the supply and demand and consequently the prices will be one year afterwards. Once the hogs are ready for market, once they are finished, they must be sold promptly or else all the feed they consumed is a try loss for the farmer. He must then take his hogs to town and let them go at any price he is offered. Of course this makes the packers opportunity, but after the farmer has sold his hogs at a loss, he goes home with the determination to raise hogs only for himself.

With the actual fluctuations of prices and as there is nothing to warn the farmers when they are on the verge of over production it is always a matter of guess or speculation whether he is going to make a profit or incur a loss in raising hogs. No wonder he is afraid to run the risk.

There is no certainty that hog raising pays year in and year out. On the contrary, many farmers in Alberta think they have been losing money in it year in and year out for several years past. According to the estimate of Prof. Day of the notario Agricultural College the average cost of producing hogs is $4.30 per 100 lbs live weight and most of the hogs raised in Alberta last year have paid only $3.50 and $4.00. Still the price of lard and bacon did not come down a cent, and carcasses of cured meats were imported from the United States.

After this what will the Alberta farmers think of the advice given them "that the farmer and the packer must co-operate, the farmer by producing a steady supply of hogs and the packers of paying a fairly uniform price?"

Some time ago the Alberta Society of Equity set the price for hogs at 51-2 cents per pound, alive, and at the price the farmers are ready to fill the capacity of the factories. On the other hand with the price they charge to the consumers the packers could certainly afford to pay the farmers their price and make good profits. But who is to guarantee the farmers that they will? The packers are in business to make as much money as they can. It is to their interest to pay the farmers the lowest possible price, and charge the consumer the highest. They enjoy the discretionary power to set and manipulate prices. The farmers feel that they are completely at their mercy. After their past experience how would their confidence in the packers be restored and the proposed co-operation of producer and packer be effectuated?

It has been suggested that the farmers club together and build packing houses themselves. But the farmers have neither the experience nor the capital necessary to compete successfully with the existing concerns. Here in Alberta the farmers have tied joint stock companies to operate threshing machines, saw mills, flour mills, etc., but most of those farmers' companies have proved complete failures. It is doubtful that they would succeed better in the packing business.

The establishment of a chilled and cured meat trade by the Government or by the leading cities of Alberta seems a better solution of the problem, and a resolution to that effect was passed at the convention of the Society of Equity last month. If the Government officials owned the plants they would be in a position to control the prices. They would insure a fair and uniform price to be paid to the producers and a moderate price to be charged to the consumer and our foreign markets could be considerably enlarged. The confidence in the hog raising industry would be immediately restored and the dread of packers' combine or monopoly would be done away with for ever. When the general production would be easily controlled also. When deliveries would become too large, the farmers could be paid with notes bearing no interest, instead of cash and that would be a warning of the supply getting larger than the demand. But even then the farmers would always be assured of an honest reward for their labor and trouble.

A few years ago when the Government made arrangements for the shipping of our oats to South Africa and made provisions for a fair price to be paid to the farmers, it was a boon not only to the farmers but to the whole community.

What the Government is doing now for our creamery trade they can do for our meat trade.

Or why should not our progressive western cities engage in that business? Now the city people like the farmers are at the mercy of an always possible combine of butchers and packers. Their supply of meat is equal in importance to their supply of water. The cities build and operate water-works. Why could they not build and operate packing houses? They have in their midst the capital and the business ability required, and like the Government they are interested in the general welfare of all the people, producers and consumers. If by equitable and steady prices the farmer was made prosperous the city people would share his prosperity. The money the farmers make is not as a rule used to speculate. After his debts are paid if he has any money left he will simply live better, dress better, furnish his home better, buy a few luxuries he must dispense with at present, and all this will naturally benefit the city manufacturer, the city merchant, the city workman. The ownership of packing plants by the Government or the city with their control of prices would be a blessing for both producer and consumer, and would be the dawn of unprejudiced prosperity for this province. HUMOROUS INCIDENTS IN THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

wasn't the boy to vote agin him."

Two canvassers in Liverpool have had an amazing, if somewhat grim, experience. Calling at a house on their route, they inquired if they could see Mr. Brown, the good mistress of the household answering, "Yes; come in." On entering the house she struck a light, remarking, "Follow me, please," and started to mount the stairs. At the bedroom door she stopped and said, "There he is." Imagine the amazement and disappointment of canvassers when they found that the man they had come to canvass was dead. The canvassers had been mistaken for the undertaker and his assistant.

Mr. Foote, the candidate for North Bristol, neatly countered a heckler who exclaimed, "You haven't a leg to stand on!" with the answer, "Anyway, I've got a Foote!"

A Liverpool canvasser had the curious experience of discovering two householders, residing side by side of the names of Whiting and Haddock. But his mirth was scarcely concealed when he was informed, in reply to his request for a short interview, that "Mr. Haddock was at sea."

A question was submitted to Mr. Helme at Lancaster which had been sent to the meeting by express post—the postage being prepaid—and marked "Urgent!" There was no name, and it was suggested that Mr. Bittomley, the Unionist election agent, was the author. The question was: "Is Mr. Helme in favor of Easter Monday being held on Easter Monday—that being Bank Holiday—so that the unemployed may have the opportunity of celebrating the historic event?" The vast audience shrieked with surprise, and the laughter was tumultuous. Mrs. Helme spoke to her husband, evidently suggesting the answer. "No," replied Mr. Helme, "because I am afraid it will interfere with too many washing days."

At Sunderland an enthusiastic Free trader announced that "Mr. Chamberlain's red herring is coming home to roost."

Two voters, aged eighty-four and eighty years, respectively, declared in Kingswindsor that they had voted Liberal for the first time, because they dreaded a return to Protection.

A most unusual incident is reported from Cambridge. During the university polling Mr. F. K. Peile recorded his vote where his father, the master of Christ's College, was presiding officer. Next day the father voted in the borough election, where Mr. Peile, Jr., was presiding officer.

Some unusual Smoothies were employed in Sunderland. The "Glory Song" of the Alexander-Torrey mission was used to howl down Mr. Haggie (Unionist). At one of Prof. Stuart's meetings, some person turned the gas off at the meter, and a panic was narrowly averted.

Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman's vote at Cambridge University was rejected, as he had not complied with the instructions for filling up the papers as is required in proxy votes.

A flowery orator, contesting a county in which his family possessed hereditary acres, implored support on the ground that he had been "personally connected with the district for more than six centuries."

"Enthusiasm is getting very hot when some people are actually on fire," said the chairman of an enthusiastic meeting in support of the Hon. Ivor Guest at Cardiff, when it was discovered that smoke was issuing from the coat-tail pocket of the candidate on the platform.

"Are you in favor of the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill?" Sir Theodore Augier was asked at Gateshead. Sir Theodore waived his hand down towards wife and his sister who were on the platform, and a boisterous smile flitted across his face as he replied, "Certainly."

The Conservative candidate at Gateshead claimed that Shakespeare was a Tariff Reformer, because he wrote: "You take my life if you take the means by which I live."

At one of Mr. Henry Norman's meetings, South Wolverhampton, he was accompanied by his son, not yet nine years of age. In a clear voice the boy told that he did not know how to make a speech, "but I think that as my father has been such a good father to me, he would make a very good member of Parliament for you."

An amusing conversation was heard in a remote district of the North Wilts constituency. Two agricultural laborers were engaged in a political discussion, and one asked the other what the fiscal question was. "Oh," came the explanation, "they be goin' to tax food to make passive resistors be vaccinated!"

One of Mr. Claude Hay's motors took a paralyzed voter to the Shorelitch Town Hall. He was carried into the polling booth "pick-a-back," and was supported by the presiding officer while he recorded his vote.

When Sir A. Conan Doyle was addressing a meeting in Galashiels, he was interrupted in the middle of his argument by a man who rose in the body of the hall, flourishing a pan loaf on the end of a walking stick, and cried, amidst laughter and cheers, "Answer this."

At a meeting in the Dorset division a speaker said "I am pleased to see before me some men who have laid down their lives for their country."

Canvassing an artisan district of Sunderland, a lady, after chattering pleasantly with housewife, turned her attention to the three little ones. "What sweet little darlings," she exclaimed, kissing each in turn, and then glancing towards a man seated by the kitchen fire, she added "And how like their father!" But unfortunately for her, he was the lodger. She left without the promise of a vote.

At a Tory meeting in the Spalding division, the chairman, in relating his canvassing experiences said he called at a house and saw the voter's wife. He inquired as to the politics of her husband.

"Well," she replied, "when he goes to a Liberal meeting he is a Liberal, and when he goes to a Tory meeting he is a Tory." "But," queried the canvasser, "what is he when he is at home?" And the lady gave the unexpected reply "When he is at home he is a nuisance."

At a Tory meeting at Whitechurch, a speaker, annoyed at a chorus of rejoinders shouted from the audience, exclaimed "One fool at a time!" "Go on, boss!" was the response from one of the opponents.

"I doubt very much whether any man in England ought to have two places to live in at the same time," declared the Duke of Northumberland to an Islesworth audience.

Rats were let loose in a hall at Peterborough where a Liberal meeting was being held. Some fainting people were carried out, several disturbers were lifted bodily over the heads of the audience and expelled from the hall.

Mr. Samuel Chapman, Unionist candidate for Perth, endured some lively heckling. At one meeting an old man came forward and, deliberately laying down his coat and stick, handed up several questions. Mr. Chapman replied to the first, but the old Scotsman, gesticulating wildly, exclaimed, "I canna hear, I'm deaf." The heckler, pulling an ear trumpet from his pocket, applied it to his ear, and the candidate shouted his replies into the instrument.

STAMTON, ILL., SEPT. 25, 1905.
I hereby certify that on April 20th, 1903, I bought of your agent one of your No. 7 U. S. Cream Separators, and after using it for more than two years, I am more than satisfied. In 1902 I sold the milk of my seven cows to the creamery and realized from said cows an average of $11.00 per month. From the herd in the spring of 1903 I sold two of the seven cows and milked the other five, and my income from the five cows was $45.00 per month, a difference of $34.00 in favor of the U. S. Separator. If necessary I will make affidavit as to this statement.
E. D. BRUCE.

Now, how quick did Mr. Bruce get his money back? Well, the extra profits alone paid for his U. S. in just about six weeks. Many thousands of satisfied users prove the U. S. CREAM SEPARATOR.

Four bottles cured me. This winter I had a very bad cold, and was not able to speak, my lungs were sore on the side and back. Six bottles of Shilo made me well again. I have given it to several people and every one of them have been cured."—D. Joseph, St. Hyacinthe, Que.
